How is Airbnb really being used in and affecting the neighbourhoods of your city?

Airbnb claims to be part of the "sharing economy" and disrupting the hotel industry. However, data shows that the majority of Airbnb listings in most cities are entire homes, many of which are rented all year round - disrupting housing and communities.

Browse the data for your city below, and see for yourself.

REPORT | MAY 29, 2018

Healthy Travel and Healthy Destinations

Airbnb fights overcrowding and reduces mass tourism concentration

Across the eight global tourist destinations studied, at least two-thirds of all guest arrivals on Airbnb take place outside of traditional tourist areas, and 72 to 93 percent of Airbnb listings are located outside of areas that are at risk for overtourism, as a result of homes being less concentrated than hotels. This encourages geographic diversity and distribution of guest arrivals.

Unfortunately, the mass travel industry has been converging on an equilibrium of concentrated travel, overcrowded destinations, and a disconnect between the broader tourism economy and the local community. As this report describes, home sharing defies, and in some ways is even starting to reverse these trends in several important ways.
